505	“Beauty for Ashes: Navigating the Sacred Landscape of Grief	Instructor: Minister Janice Alford	PM 2:30- 4:30 In- person and Virtual

Course Description: Grief is not a sign of weak faith; it is a testament to deep love. As Christians, we often feel the pressure to "move on" or "stay joyful," yet the Bible is filled with the language of lament and a God who draws near to the brokenhearted. This four-day intensive offers a sacred sanctuary to explore the meaning of loss through a biblical lens. We will define multifaceted types of grief, search the Scriptures for comfort and permission to mourn, and ultimately use the medium of painting to externalize what words cannot express. Whether you are mourning a loved one, a lost season, or a broken dream, join us as we invite the Holy Spirit to transform our mourning into a masterpiece of hope. As we journey on a creative catharsis, providing a sanctuary for those navigating loss, offering the tools of acrylics, watercolors, and mixed media to navigate the “messiness” of mourning. Through the act of Painting Through Grief, we move from the stillness of sorrow to the movement of hope.

901	“Cultivating Spiritual Growth: Preaching and Teaching the Way They Learn	Rev. Dr. Lesia Patterson	AM

Course Description: Effective biblical teaching and preaching seek not only to communicate information but also to transform lives through a deeper understanding of God's Word. This course will explore how an awareness of learning styles can enhance the teaching and preaching ministry of preachers, teachers, and ministry leaders. Drawing on the widely recognized VARK learning model - Visual, Auditory, Reading/Writing, and Kinesthetic - participants will examine how individuals receive, process, and retain biblical truth. While many learners demonstrate preferences within these categories, others learn through a combination of styles, requiring communicators of God's Word to employ diverse instructional and preaching methods. Attendees will be challenged to move beyond teaching and preaching solely through an auditory learning style and instead intentionally engage the varied learning preferences within the congregation, creating a richer landscape for biblical understanding and spiritual growth. The contents of this course are based on research and the study of God's Word.

The target audience includes preachers, Sunday School teachers, Bible study leaders, seminary students, Christian educators, and anyone committed to cultivating spiritual growth through the effective communication of God's Word.
